French Warships Steam into New York

RICHELIEU TO BE REFITTED, JOIN U. S. FLEET

Heavy Cruiser, Destroyers Also Make Port—Others To Come Later

GIRAUD ORDERS TRANSFER

Sea Battlers All Modern And Of High Value To America

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—The mighty French battleship, the Richelieu, which escaped to Dakar at the time of the French-German armistice in 1940, is now in the port of New York for refitting, Vice Admiral Ramon Fenard, head of the French naval mission to the United States, announced today.

Also arriving from Dakar were the heavy cruiser Montcalm, and the destroyers Fantasque and Terrible.

Fenard said the ships will be followed by other fighting units of the French fleet on orders of General Henri Giraud, head of the French fighting forces in North Africa.

"These ships," Fenard said, "are the most modern type and will constitute a valuable addition to the forces of the United States."

Eager To Fight
The French admiral revealed the eagerness now possessing officers and ratings of the warcraft to get into fighting action once more. He said:

"The crews, after more than two years of inaction, are anxious to take up the fight once again against our common enemy. They will soon see their comrades of the French navy who have been doing their share in keeping open the lanes of the North African front."

Contrary to the opinion generally held hitherto, Fenard revealed that the Richelieu was not completed at the time she fled France to escape seizure by the Nazis nor had she been completed at Dakar.

When she next clears United States waters she will be in fighting trim, complete and ready for service for the first time.

Although the present and planned armor and armament of the Richelieu is a naval secret, Janes fighting ships revealed she was a powerful, speedy vessel at the time of launching.

She displaced 35,000 tons (40,900 tons full load), carried a complement of 1,670 men and was armed with eight 15-inch guns, 15 six-inch guns and 36 anti-aircraft guns. The Richelieu also carried four aircraft and had a total overall armor weight of 15,000 tons. Her speed was given as over 30 knots.

The Richelieu suffered wounds inflicted by friends in the engagement at Dakar on July 8, 1940. At that time, British naval aircraft torpedoed the big vessel after exploding depth charges against her hull which practically disabled the Richelieu.

Solons Aim To Regain Authority

House Moves Toward Action On Two More Issues In Controversy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—With the congressional drive to recapture lost powers widening steadily, the house this week may act on two more controversial issues—President Roosevelt's $25,000 limitation on salaries, and the conduct of his chief postwar planning agency, the National Resources Planning Board.

House committees have already drawn the battle lines by taking the following action:

1. The Appropriations Committee has reported a $2,600,000,000 supply bill to finance 17 so-called independent establishments of the government for another year, but has cut off all funds for the government for another year, but has cut off all funds for the planning board. The house begins debate on this bill today.

2. The Ways and Means Committee, by a 15 to 10 vote, has reported a bill to increase the national debt limit to $210,000,000,000, but has attached a legislative "rider" revoking the $25,000 salary limitation, substituting for it a greatly modified statutory (Continued on Page Two)

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

Pravda which comes here to talk for Joe says the Baltic states belong to Russia as much as Alaska and California belong to the United States.

This is pettifoggery. We purchased Alaska from Russia and got California in a deal with Paramount and 20th Century-Fox.

Russia paid nothing for Estonia, Latvia, Bessarabia and Lithuania and got a bargain.

She seized them in 1940 while we looked the other way and Pravda says she intends to hold them.

So there we are my dear parashioners and how are your international ideals today?

Pravda is the official organ of the central committee of the all-union Russian communist party. When Pravda says a thing is so it is not idle gossip picked up in the street.

If Pravda says Russia intends to hold Estonia, Lithuania, Bessarabia and Latvia — and Pravda did say so — that disposes of the subject unless somebody feels like arguing.

Do we feel like arguing?

Thought for the day: Any questions?

"ARMY" CAST ON WAY WEST TO MAKE PICTURE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15—The huge cast of "This Is The Army" was en route to Hollywood today carrying with it the Navy's Burgee "E" pennant.

The cast was given the pennant at the orders of Vice Admiral John Greenslade, commandant of the western sea frontier, "as an expression of gratitude for playing so many shows for wounded Navy and Marine patients in all navy hospitals."

It was presented by Chief Petty Officer Charles Morris to Irving Berlin, producer of the show, whose cast includes only enlisted men.

Berlin, who also appears in the show, singing his famous song "Oh, How I Hate To Get Up In The Morning," presented the pennant to Sgt. Alan Anderson, head stage manager.

The cast will make a picture version of "This Is The Army" for the Army's Emergency Relief Fund.

Air Transports Cross Ocean At Average Of More Than 500 Weekly

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15—Capt. E. V. "Eddie" Rickenbacker today revealed that the army and navy air transport commands now average "around 500 trans-Atlantic flights per week and more are being added all the time."

At the same time, Rickenbacker said in an interview he was opposed to overtime pay for the newly established 48-hour week in 32 manufacturing centers.

"In times like these," he said, "I do not approve of overtime pay except for the men in the foxholes, the swamps, the deserts — those making the supreme sacrifice."

"There is little reason why those back home should not expend every effort and energy, if for no other reason than that our own skins are at stake."

Rickenbacker foresaw a post-war era of aerial activity when "air liners will be as common as freight cars."

He also revealed that the war has brought about some inventions that will be of tremendous benefit to commerce, agriculture and industry when peace returns.

Rickenbacker stated that the number of flying fields, for training and other purposes, that have been built in this country, is now a military secret.

"But," he added, "it is no secret that after the war, hundreds of these fields will become the backbone of the largest network of airports that any country in the world can boast of."

The council blamed "injurious" government publicity regarding possible shortages of wool and of apparel for the present buying scare.

WOOL SUPPLY LARGE ENOUGH FOR ALL NEEDS

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—The United States today possesses the largest supply of wool in its history and there is absolutely no justification for the "scare buying of clothing," the American wool council maintained today.

The council, which represents the nation's wool growers and a group of the country's largest woolen mills, warned that the present rush to buy clothing threatens "to load the American public with stores of inferior apparel purchased at high prices."

In deriding frenzied clothing purchases the council pointed out that the War Production Board has officially announced it will increase allotments of wool for civilian purposes in the immediate future. This increase will bring civilian textile production to "a point approaching 1939" it added.

The council blamed "injurious" government publicity regarding possible shortages of wool and of apparel for the present buying scare.

HEAVIER PLANE DEFENSE

Developments Reflected In Reported Appearance Of More Nip Zeros

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—Stiffening Japanese resistance in the Shortland island area of the Solomons indicated today that the enemy is moving in reinforcements in an effort to check America's anticipated offensive in that direction.

This development was reflected in the Navy communique which stated that 45 Jap zero fighter planes intercepted American aircraft which attempted to raid the important Shortland island area in the Northern Solomons on February 13.

Although eight of the enemy planes were shot down, America's South Pacific air force paid heavily for the assault. Four U. S. planes were shot down by zeros and two more by anti-aircraft fire which was described as "heavy."

More Zeros Appear
This is the largest number of zeros ever mentioned in Navy communique on an intercepting mission since the outbreak of the Solomons conflict.

During the last few weeks American airmen have made numerous sweeps over the Shortland-Bougainville area but in most of the raids there was little or no Japanese aerial resistance.

Since the crushing of Nipponese resistance on Guadalcanal, Navy men have been predicting that the Japanese would bolster their defenses in the Northern Solomons to prevent an American sweep northwestward toward the main enemy bases near Truk.

FRANK A. LYNCH SUFFERS STROKE ON AUTO TRIP

Frank A. Lynch, South Court street, one of Circleville's leading citizens, showed little improvement Monday in Berger hospital where he was taken Saturday afternoon following a stroke which he suffered when he was driving home from Chillicothe.

Mr. Lynch had been in Chillicothe on business and had driven to a point about two miles south of the Pickaway-Ross county line when he was stricken. Whether he felt the stroke coming on isn't certain, but he was able to pull his car to the side of the road and turn off the ignition. He fell when trying to get out of the automobile and was found in a ditch by Nelson and Troy Shaeffer, who live on Route 23 nearby.

The Shaeffers called W. H. Bosworth, who also lives nearby, the latter bringing Mr. Lynch to Circleville in the stricken man's car.

Unable to speak, Mr. Lynch had taken from a pocket a paper on which his name was written so that identification could be made.

The prominent soft drink manufacturer has not been well for several months.

GANDHI NOT SO WELL ON SIXTH DAY OF FAST

BOMBAY, Feb. 15—Mohandas K. Gandhi's condition today—the sixth day of his three-week self-imposed fast—is "not so satisfactory," doctors reported.

The 73-year-old Mahatma, confined in the Aga Khan's Palace at Poona, is "troubled by nausea and broken sleep."

Millions of Items for Fighting Yankees Sent From Columbus Depot

COLUMBUS QUARTERMASTER DEPOT, COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 15—A wounded soldier, lying in a foxhole in an East Indian jungle, sprinkles sulfanilamide in his open wound, and lives. . . .

A combat unit in North Africa, cut off temporarily from its supply base, maintains its morale on cigarettes and chewing gum contained in its emergency rations. . . .

A gas truck refuels exhausted tanks and planes, and the tide of a battle is turned. . . .

The sulfanilamide, the cigarettes and chewing gum, and the refueling truck, plus the millions of other items besides guns and ammunition needed to win a war, all came from the 635-acre reservation of the Columbus Quartermaster Depot, one of the largest suppliers of war material in the world.

There are literally millions of items being shipped from the depot, six miles east of Columbus, to war fronts all over the world. The medical section supplies everything from a complete 1,000-bed hospital to the individual first aid kit which every soldier carries, and which contains a packet of sulfanilamide to prevent infection.

The plant which packs emergency rations can put out more than 50,000 cases of emergency rations a day, and the rations contain both adequate food plus four cigarettes, a bar of highly-concentrated chocolate, and a stick of chewing gum.

The engineering section furnishes gas, oil and water tanks, thousands of combat and tactical vehicles, and 8,600 different types of complete assemblies, ranging from tools to tractors. It was this section that provided the road-building equipment for the Alcan highway, and the leveling machines that built the airfields in North Africa, in Alaska, and on Guadalcanal.

More than 1,000 freight cars a week carry literally billions of dollars worth of equipment from Columbus to embarkation points on the seacoasts, whence it is transhipped over all the seven seas. There are 10,000,000 feet of inside or protected storage space on the reservation, with scores of warehouses more than a third of a mile long. Thirty and 50 caliber machine guns are sent to tank arsenals in 100-gun lots, with nearly 200,000 such weapons being shipped in a single month.

Rapid-fire Bofors 40-mm. anti-aircraft guns, which can aim and fire automatically and are deadly to 7,200 feet, are taken apart and crated for shipment in 47 minutes. Clothing is inspected and re-shipped, everything from tropic uniforms to winter woollens.

The uniforms, incidentally, are treated to make them impervious to the blistering gases such as mustard gas and Lewisite. The depot's chemical warfare section is one of three such installations in the nation operated by the chemical warfare service. In addition to protecting the wearers from gas burns, soldiers will be glad to learn that it has been discovered that the treatment also makes the garments "bootie-proof."

One warehouse alone contains 85,000 different kinds of spare parts for the machines of 670 different manufacturers. There are more than 1,250,000 charts of different machines filed in the depot library. Complete vehicular field repair shops are assembled, and half-tracks, scout cars and bomb trucks are crated for shipment.

MADAM CHIANG SOON TO LEAVE FOR WASHINGTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—Madame Chiang Kai-Shek has improved sufficiently in health to leave New York for Washington "within a few days," a Chinese embassy statement announced today.

Pointing out that Mme. Chiang has been under continuous medical care since she arrived in this country late in November. The statement added that her health has forced her to reduce the number of her public appearances and social functions to a minimum.

Current plans include visits to Wellesley college in Massachusetts, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles before she returns to China. The embassy said that Mme. Chiang will go to Washington in the middle of February.

WOMEN ENLISTING
NEW YORK, Feb. 15—Paced by receipt of 1,000 applicants for admission by mail, the United States Marine Corps New York Office began today to accept enlistments in the New Women's Reserves.

Most Savage Battle Seen In North Africa Rages Near Faid Pass

HUNS LEAVING KHARKOV

Russians Push On Through Rostov Toward Key Port On Azov Sea

BULLETIN
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS
IN NORTH AFRICA, Feb. 15—Heavy land and air fighting—the most savage of the Tunisian war—raged in the area west of Faid Pass today following a violent attack by Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's panzer divisions against American positions.

Operating in what was officially termed "heavy strength," the Germans launched a large-scale attack yesterday morning. Rommel's attack was preceded by strong dive-bomber assaults and heavy artillery fire. By 9 a. m. yesterday enemy forces had reached the Sizi Bouzid road junction from Faid Pass. One spearhead smashed westward and northward toward Sbeitla. Another launched an attack from south of Faid toward Sbeitla on the main road to Gafsa.

The Germans were in heavy force with many tanks, dive-bombers, truck-borne troops and artillery. The attack had every appearance of one of Rommel's wide-sweeping flank movements, seriously jeopardizing American units at Gafsa and threatening Ferkana.

By 6 p. m. yesterday Rommel's two columns had gained about 18 miles and were some 15 miles east of Sbeitla, the key road junction.

At 9 a. m. yesterday an American armored force struck a counter blow at Rommel's column advancing along the road from Faid, but sustained casualties, especially to its artillery. The American force at last reports was retreating to the southwest.

It is certain that Rommel has gathered as much armored material as possible in the south for striking purposes, trying to prevent the allies from launching a major push, which probably would have been underway within a month. The Field Marshal's force is estimated at 50,000 with perhaps 500 tanks.

By International News Service
German legions were reportedly evacuating Kharkov today as the Red army, following up its recapture of Rostov, drew tighter its semi-encircling steel arc around the Ukrainian capital in a determined campaign to crush all Nazi resistance in the Donets river valley.

Picked German troops and huge stocks of supplies were said to be moving westward from the besieged city, apparently in anticipation (Continued on Page Two)

NO SHORT WEEK TOLERATED BY ARMY AND NAVY

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—Young men and women chosen to take specialized army and navy courses in selected colleges and universities will go to school not 40, not 48, but 60 hours a week.

Details of selection and training were discussed by Prof. J. W. Barker, dean of the Engineering School of Columbia university and special assistant to the secretary of the navy, and Col. W. E. Gregory, executive officer of the army specialized training division.

The army program will be divided into 24 hours of classroom or laboratory instruction, 48 hours of study, five hours of military training and seven hours of physical training. The navy plan will be more elastic but also will require 60 hours weekly.

The program will be continued 48 weeks a year and Col. Gregory estimated that a year's training would equal two years of normal academic instruction.

FARM WORKER KILLED BY CAR

Willard J. John, 55, Struck South Of City—Walking In Middle Of Road

Willard Jay John, 55-year-old farm laborer, was killed Sunday at 1:45 a. m. when he was struck by the automobile of John Wolford, Pickaway township, driven by Mrs. Wolford. The accident happened in Route 23, two miles south of Circleville.

Mr. John, an employee for the last three years of Edward Kreisel, Pickaway township, was walking southward in the middle of the highway. Mr. and Mrs. Wolford told Deputy Sheriff Vern Pontious, who investigated. Acting Coroner B. T. Hedger returned a finding of accidental death.

The Wolfords, who had been attending a party in Circleville at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Burger, North Court street, said they had dimmed the lights of their car as a courtesy to a north-bound automobile. "When I turned on the bright lights," Mrs. Wolford told the deputy, "the man was right in front of the car, and it was too late to keep from hitting him."

Mr. and Mrs. Wolford put the injured man in the back of their car and took him to Berger hospital, but he was dead on arrival. A fracture at the base of the skull caused death.

Mr. John was a native of southern Ohio, and had lived alone in a tenant house on the Kreisel farm. His wife is dead. Survivors include three sons, Homer L. and Howard E., of Springfield, and Raymond E., of Columbus, and a daughter, Miss Myrtle E., of Columbus.

Three brothers and one sister also survive. Albert Howe of Walnut township is a brother-in-law.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday at 1 p. m. at the Deffenbaugh funeral home with burial in Forest cemetery.

House Moves Toward Action On Two More Issues In Controversy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—With the congressional drive to recapture lost powers widening steadily, the house this week may act on two more controversial issues—President Roosevelt's $25,000 limitation on salaries, and the conduct of his chief postwar planning agency, the National Resources Planning Board.

More than 1,000 freight cars a week carry literally billions of dollars worth of equipment from Columbus to embarkation points on the seacoasts, whence it is transhipped over all the seven seas. There are 10,000,000 feet of inside or protected storage space on the reservation, with scores of warehouses more than a third of a mile long. Thirty and 50 caliber machine guns are sent to tank arsenals in 100-gun lots, with nearly 200,000 such weapons being shipped in a single month.

Rapid-fire Bofors 40-mm. anti-aircraft guns, which can aim and fire automatically and are deadly to 7,200 feet, are taken apart and crated for shipment in 47 minutes. Clothing is inspected and reshipped, everything from tropical uniforms to winter woollens.

The uniforms, incidentally, are treated to make them impervious to the blistering gases such as mustard gas and Lewisite. The depot's chemical warfare section is one of three such installations in the nation operated by the chemical warfare service. In addition to protecting the wearers from gas burns, soldiers will be glad to learn that it has been discovered that the treatment also makes the garments "cootie-proof."

One warehouse alone contains 85,000 different kinds of spare parts for the machines of 670 different manufacturers. There are more than 1,250,000 charts of different machines filed in the depot library. Complete vehicular field repair shops are assembled, and half-tracks, scout cars and bomb trucks are crated for shipment.

FARM WORKER KILLED BY CAR

Willard J. John, 55, Struck South of City—Walking In Middle Of Road

Willard Jay John, 55-year-old farm laborer, was killed Sunday at 1:45 a. m. when he was struck by the automobile of John Wolford, Pickaway township, driven by Mrs. Wolford. The accident happened in Route 23, two miles south of Circleville.

Mr. John, an employee for the last three years of Edward Kreisel, Pickaway township, was walking southward in the middle of the highway, Mr. and Mrs. Wolford told Deputy Sheriff Vern Pontious, who investigated. Acting Coroner B. T. Hedges returned a finding of accidental death.

The Wolfords, who had been attending a party in Circleville at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Burger, North Court street, said they had dimmed the lights of their car as a courtesy to a north-bound automobile. "When I turned on the bright lights," Mrs. Wolford told the deputy, "the man was right in front of the car, and it was too late to keep from hitting him."

Mr. and Mrs. Wolford put the injured man in the back of their car and took him to Berger hospital, but he was dead on arrival. A fracture at the base of the skull caused death.

Mr. John was a native of southern Ohio, and had lived alone in a tenant house on the Kreisel farm. His wife is dead. Survivors include three sons, Homer L. and Howard E., of Springfield, and Raymond E., of Columbus, and a daughter, Miss Myrtle E., of Columbus. Three brothers and one sister also survive. Albert Howe of Walnut township is a brother-in-law.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday at 1 p. m. at the Defenbaugh funeral home with burial in Forest cemetery.

GERMANS DRIVE AGAINST LINES OF AMERICANS

Most Savage Battle Seen In North Africa Rages Near Faid Pass

HUNS LEAVING KHARKOV

Russians Push On Through Rostov Toward Key Port On Azov Sea

BULLETIN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Feb. 15—Heavy land and air fighting—the most savage of the Tunisian war—raged in the area west of Faid Pass today following a violent attack by Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's panzer divisions against American positions.

Operating in what was officially termed "heavy strength," the Germans launched a large-scale attack yesterday morning.

Rommel's attack was preceded by strong dive-bomber assaults and heavy artillery fire. By 9 a. m. yesterday enemy forces had reached the Sizi Bouzid road junction from Faid Pass. One spearhead smashed westward and northward toward Sbeitla. Another launched an attack from south of Faid toward Sbeitla on the main road to Gafsa.

The Germans were in heavy force with many tanks, dive-bombers, truck-borne troops and artillery. The attack had every appearance of one of Rommel's wide-sweeping flank movements, seriously jeopardizing American units at Gafsa and threatening Fehna.

By 6 p. m. yesterday Rommel's two columns had gained about 18 miles and were some 15 miles east of Sbeitla, the key road junction.

At 9 a. m. yesterday an American armored force struck a counter blow at Rommel's column advancing along the road from Faid, but sustained casualties, especially to its artillery. The American force at last reports was retreating to the southwest.

It is certain that Rommel has gathered as much armored material as possible in the south for striking purposes, trying to prevent the allies from launching a major push, which probably would have been underway within a month. The Field Marshal's force is estimated at 50,000 with perhaps 500 tanks.

German legions were reportedly evacuating Kharkov today as the Red army, following up its recapture of Rostov, drew tighter its semi-encircling steel are around the Ukrainian capital in a determined campaign to crush all Nazi resistance in the Donets river valley.

Picked German troops and huge stocks of supplies were said to be moving westward from the besieged city, apparently in anticipation.

NO SHORT WEEK TOLERATED BY ARMY AND NAVY

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 — Young men and women chosen to take specialized army and navy courses in selected colleges and universities will go to school not 40, not 48, but 60 hours a week.

Details of selection and training were discussed by Prof. J. W. Barker, dean of the Engineering School of Columbia university and special assistant to the secretary of the navy, and Col. W. E. Gregory, executive officer of the army specialized training division.

The army program will be divided into 24 hours of classroom or laboratory instruction, 48 hours of study, five hours of military training and seven hours of physical training. The navy plan will be more elastic but also will require 60 hours weekly.

The program will be continued 48 weeks a year and Col. Gregory estimated that a year's training would equal two years of normal academic instruction.

tion of a last desperate stand on the banks of the great Dnieper river.

At Rostov, the Russians paused only long enough to establish possession of the gateway city and then drove westward toward the sea of Azov port of Taganrog, 40 miles beyond Rostov, the key southern stronghold still in German hands.

The Soviet high command's noon communique announced that the Nazis were throwing in picked units in the Chuguyev area, directly southeast of Kharkov, in a desperate attempt to halt the Russian steamroller drive on the city. "SS" elite guard units recently stationed in France were included in the reinforcing troops, the Russians said.

As the Russians closed in on Kharkov from three sides, big Soviet siege guns pounded the industrial center, paving the way for the ground troops' capture and occupation of Hitler's biggest base east of the Dnieper.

The entire lower end of Hitler's Winter defense line—originally intended to be an offensive line—was crushed by yesterday's capture of Rostov and the Donets industrial capital of Voroshilovgrad. No estimates of axis casualties were made by the Soviet high command, but it was believed at least a quarter-million troops held Rostov.

The air war over Europe reached new heights of intensity during the night as the RAF levelled a double-barreled assault against Milan, large industrial city of northern Italy, and Cologne, railway hub and manufacturing center in the heart of the German Rhineland.

Blazing fires were left in Milan's industrial areas, the air ministry announced. Ground defenses were weak and there was no aerial interception. At Cologne, tons of incendiaries and high explosives were dropped in a half-hour raid. Anti-aircraft fire was not as heavy as usual, but strong enemy fighter opposition was encountered. Nine of the British raiders failed to return, the ministry said.

A late communique from British middle east headquarters in Cairo announced that the Eighth Army was continuing its westward drive toward Ben Gardane, in south-eastern Tunisia, site of a strategic axis-held airport. The communique also announced allied raids on air-dromes in Crete and southern Italy Saturday night.

In the southwest Pacific, Nippon's huge base at Rabaul, New Britain, still was smouldering today after the biggest allied air raid of the war in this theatre. More than 30 Liberators and Flying Fortresses, in four mighty formations, swept over the city in a pre-dawn attack yesterday to drop more than 50 tons of explosives, nearly 4,000 fire bombs and hundreds of fragmentation missiles.

Pillars of smoke rose 7,500 feet in the air and flames were visible 110 miles away.

Elsewhere in the southwest Pacific, six American planes were shot down when they tangled with 45 zeros while attempting to raid the Shortland islands on February 13, a navy communique announced. It was the first time any such force of Japanese fighters ever took the air to intercept an American bombing raid. Eight of the Jap planes were destroyed.

CHEST OFFERS $16,800 CHECK TO RED CROSS

Pickaway county Community Chest mailed a check for $16,800 Monday to Carl C. Leist, chairman of the Pickaway county Red Cross. Decision to mail the Red Cross the check was reached at a conference Sunday afternoon.

The letter sent to Mr. Leist said: "Enclosed please find a check from the Pickaway county Community Chest for $16,800 to cover the amount announced by you as your goal in your forthcoming drive."

"This action is being taken in keeping with the pledge made during the recent drive by the Community Chest trustees to their approximately 3,200 contributors, to the effect that this money would be offered to the Pickaway county chapter of the Red Cross."

"This check is being offered your chapter with the provision that the contributors to the Pickaway county Community Chest shall not be further solicited in your present drive."

"A complete list of such contributors will be gladly furnished you on request."

The letter was signed by Mack D. Parrett, secretary of the Community Chest. Frank Fischer, superintendent of Circleville schools, is general chairman of the Community Chest fund.

REELECTION OF RYTI ASSURED, BERLIN REPORTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—An "absolute majority" of electoral votes has been secured for President Risto Rytty of Finland, ensuring his re-election, the German radio reported today.

After the two largest Finnish political parties decided to support Rytty's candidacy, the Swedish People's party decided to cast the votes of their 23 electors in his favor, the broadcast said.

Powers of Finland's president are almost unlimited, as he controls the nation's foreign policy and is commander in chief of the military forces. But Finland's foreign policy is the dominating factor in today's elections.

The government has been attempting to minimize importance of the election, declaring it is simply an internal affair "with no possible effect on Finland's foreign policy."

Press discussion of election issues in the axis-dominated nation has been frowned on, and many of the electors, it is feared, know little of the international implications of today's elections.

The balloting is of particular interest to the world at large because of recent rumors that Finland may be seeking peace with Russia and Great Britain, possibly through the intermediary of the United States, with whom Finland is not at war.

WILL CASES ASSIGNED

Assignment of two contested will cases for hearing before a jury was announced Monday by Judge Meeker Terwilliger. Wills involved are those of Ella Goddard and Emma Wright.

The judge said that agreement to settle has been reached in each case, but declared that a jury verdict is necessary to make the settlements valid.

TRUCK DAMAGED

Damage was minor Monday when the rear of a Wallace bakery truck was hit by a truck driven by a Columbus man at Court and Main streets. Patrolman Alva Shasten, who investigated, said both parties agreed to pay for their own damages. Name of the Columbus operator was not learned. W. E. Wallace was driving the bakery truck.

one. The house may debate this measure late this week.

In both instances, the actions of the committees are expected to be sustained by wide majorities.

A request for $1,400,000 to finance the national resources planning board through the next fiscal year was eliminated by the Appropriations Committee without so much as comment in its formal report. The board had been under congressional fire for several years, but obtained additional funds last year from congress on the grounds that it was the key agency dealing with this nation's postwar plans.

The planning group is headed by the President's uncle, Frederick A. Delano, and lists prominent educators, college professors and political economists among its personnel. The board's various reports, totaling some 80 in recent years, have been ultra-New Deal both in concept and scope.

The move to revoke the limitation of $25,000 (net after taxes) on salaries has been termed by its sponsor, Rep. Disney (D) Okla., a "revolt against government by directive." It was imposed by presidential order last October 2, after congress refused to do it by law.

The Disney rider to the debt limit bill would revoke the order and, instead, peg big salaries at their December 7, 1941 level—the day of Pearl Harbor. Any person making a net $25,000 or more at that time would continue to do so, but could receive no wartime pay boosts under the Disney measure.

RISE EXPECTED IN TEMPERATURE MONDAY NIGHT

Circleville district continued to suffer from a severe cold wave Monday, the temperature tumbling to one degree above zero during the night. The mercury climbed no higher than 15 degrees Sunday afternoon after a low of three that morning.

Weather observers predicted that the temperature would moderate a little before Monday night.

In some parts of Ohio the temperature fell below zero, Cleveland recording two below, Akron eight below, Dayton three below, Newark five below and Columbus one below.

Many state roads are reported in dangerous condition although highway crews have lessened the danger by spreading cinders. A snowdrift has closed Route 26 south of Bethesda.

The entire northern area from the east coast through the middle-west got a taste of "Russian Winter" weather. New York recorded seven below.

Temperature in the nation's capital was only seven above zero at 9 a. m., coldest February 15 since 1916.

shot down, but presumably some if not all of these were Flying Fortress bombers.

Fortresses Lost

Earlier this month a formation of Flying Fortresses was intercepted in the Shortland area and surprisingly three of the powerful four-motored bombers were shot down at that time.

This indicates that either the Japanese have increased the fire power of their zero plane or that they have developed new tactics which are proving more successful. In past air battles one Flying Fortress shot down as many as nine zeros before returning safely to its base.

There was no mention by the Navy of further attacks against Jap bases in the Central Solomons, but undoubtedly these assaults are continuing.

Since November, American planes have raided the Jap air base at Munda, on the New Georgia island, 63 times in an obvious offensive to smash this important Jap flying field.

The Navy for the first time gave some indication of the scope of America's recent land victory on Guadalcanal. A communique said that in the final offensive that began January 15, 6,066 Japanese were killed and only 127 prisoners were taken.

Dispatches from the battle area reported that less than 2,000 Japanese escaped the American trap when the brilliant pincers movement closed around the Cape Esperance area. Most of these were officers and technicians.

AUTOIST DRAWS $25 FINE AS "HIT-SKIPPER"

State highway patrol cooperated with the Pickaway county sheriff's office Sunday night, apprehending a Ross county motorist who swung out of the line of traffic, sideswiped another car and kept going.

James Martin, 25, of 204 Riverside street, Chillicothe, reported to the sheriff's office that his car had been hit as he was driving into Circleville three miles north of the corporation line. Martin gave authorities a description of the car and a call to Columbus brought Patrolman J. H. McCrate into action.

McCrate arrested Nimrod N. Garrett, 58, of Andersonville, whom he charged with failing to stop after an accident. Returned to Circleville, Garrett was fined $25 and costs by Squire B. T. Hedges, the fine being reduced to $15 when Garrett agreed to pay for damage to the Martin automobile. The driver was committed to jail after failing to pay the fine.

No one was injured in the Martin automobile, the left side of which was damaged.

CHARLES MILLER DIES FOLLOWING LONG SICKNESS

Charles E. Miller, 70, lifelong resident of Circleville, died Sunday evening at his home, 164½ West Main street. His body was found by his daughter, Mrs. Edna Moon, several hours after he had died. Complications caused death, Mr. Miller having been in failing health for five years.

Born July 5, 1872 in Circleville, he was a son of William and Margaret Drum Miller. His wife, Ella Stout Miller, preceded her husband in death.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Moon, and Mrs. James P. Moffitt, who is now enroute to Florida; seven grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Meinhardt Palm, Amanda.

Funeral will be Tuesday at 3 p. m. in the Mader chapel, the Rev. G. L. Troutman officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery. Friends may call at the chapel Monday evening and Tuesday.

MEN OF 37TH IN GOOD HEALTH, COLONEL SAYS

Health and morale of men in the 37th Division, Ohio's own, is excellent, Lt.-Col. Whittier S. Bird, chief of staff, declared Monday during a visit to Columbus. Bird is now on a military mission to the United States from his station in the south Pacific.

Men of the 37th are anxious to get a crack at the enemy, the staff chief said, none of the division having been sent into active combat yet.

Many Circleville and Pickaway county men are with the 37th division, many of them being in training since October 15, 1940.

"Since that Pacific business started, tropical isles seem to be losing their lure."

OIL PUMPING STATION TO BE BUILT IN COUNTY

Pipe Line Company Seeks Advantages Of Several Tracts Of Land

TRENCH CUTTERS ACTIVE

Excellent Progress Made In Great Construction Job Through State

Emergency Pipelines, Inc., building a vital crude oil line from Texas to the east coast, announced Monday that one of its pumping stations will be erected on a tract of land north of Circleville. The pumping plant will cover between 10 and 20 acres of land.

The definite site has not yet been announced although several locations are considered. The location is expected to be designated soon with construction of the pumping station equipment to follow.

Other pumping stations in the Ohio district include a tract south-west of Hamilton, north of Wilmington and north of Crooksville.

Excellent progress in the pipeline construction is being made through Pickaway county, pipeline officials reporting more than 15 miles of pipe welded and placed in the ground.

Trench cutters are pushing toward Fairfield county, with a crew of right-of-way workers clearing the path now beyond Lancaster.

Another crew of workmen is assigned out of Washington C. H. moving westward toward the Indiana line.

The project runs from Longview, Texas, to Bayonne, N. J., and Philadelphia, Pa., work to be completed according to government plans by June 1.

Crude oil is already being piped from Longview to Norris City, Ill., where it is being placed on tank cars for shipment to the east coast. First oil was taken from the Longview-Norris City line last week.

Crews of the pipeline and their families who have been living here for the last two months are expected soon to start their exodus eastward, some already removing to Lancaster. Most of the work in the Circleville area will be completed in the next three weeks.

STRIKERS BACK ON JOBS, BUT THREATEN WLB

DETROIT, Feb. 15—Striking members of the Mechanics' Educational Society of America went back to work today at two Detroit war plants, as their leaders were summoned to appear before the War Labor Board.

Matthew Smith, chief of the independent union which called a strike at Parker-Wolverine Corp., and Eclipse Counterbore Co., last week, said today that the workers in his group voted Sunday to "return under duress" to their jobs.

Smith and his aide, Orville Plake, previously had said the members of the MESA would not return to work unless granted representation on the War Labor Board.

"The men weren't too anxious to return," Smith said, "but they decided to give the WLB another chance to give them a fair deal."

"If they do not get a fair deal before the board, things are going to be serious."

The strike began last Thursday at Parker-Wolverine Co., when 200 workers walked off the job protesting dismissal of a Milwaukee plant worker. They were joined by 460 additional MESA men from the Eclipse plant.

What's Mrs. Petrov got that you haven't got?

Meet Mrs. Petrov, citizen of the Soviet Union.

When the Nazi Panzer Divisions approached the small Petrov farm in the Ukraine, she knew what to do.

The wheat, so near to harvest time, went up in flames. The potatoes, stored in the cellar, were soaked with kerosene. The jars of fruits and preserves were smashed, and the cow, which had given her children so many quarts of precious milk, was shot.

After piling her two young children, a few blankets and some food on the farm cart, Mrs. Petrov did one more thing. She went back to the house where she and her husband had been so happy . . . where they had worked so hard to make a home for their family—and applied the torch.

Now, everybody in this country knows that Americans are as patriotic—as capable of sacrifice—as grimly determined to beat Hitler as are the Russians or anybody else on earth.

But—by the Lord Harry—do we have to wait till a Nazi tank comes rolling up the street before we prove it?

We aren't being asked to burn our homes and destroy everything we own. Please God, we never will be.

But we are being asked to join the Payroll Savings Plan and put at least 10% of our earnings into War Bonds! We're being asked—not told—to loan money—not give it! And to loan this money at a good rate of interest and for good reasons! We're being asked to buy War Bonds to help win the war—to provide a nest egg for the future—to provide peacetime jobs and peacetime goods and a generally decent world that the fellows who are doing the fighting can come back to.

That's our job. And it's a job that won't be done until every mother's son of us is buying bonds until it hurts.

There are, right now, still people who ought to be buying War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan—and aren't.

Right now, while some of the people in the Payroll Savings Plan are setting aside more than 10%—a lot of others are investing less.

Let's change that situation—quick. If you aren't in the Payroll Savings Plan—sign up tomorrow. If you're already in, but haven't hit 10% yet—raise your sights. And if you can put in more—do it.

What's Mrs. Petrov got that we haven't? Nothing! Let's prove it!

What You Should Do

1. If you are : : :
Already investing 10% of your pay in War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan—boom then 10% if you can.
2. Working in a plant where the Plan is installed, but haven't signed up yet—sign up tomorrow.
3. Working in a plant where the Payroll Savings Plan hasn't been installed, talk to your union head, foreman or plant manager—and see if it can't be installed right away. The local bank will be glad to help.
4. Unable to get in on the Payroll Savings Plan for any reason, go to your local bank or wherever bonds are sold. They will be glad to help you start a Plan of your own.

THE MODERN CHILD

MARINNE Shaw, four years old, of Long Beach, Cal., was left alone at home for a short time. Marianne—very naughty—played with the forbidden matches. The house was set on fire. Parents are always warning children this may happen, but seldom are they taken seriously by the children. This time it did happen. Marianne was scared—but she did not lose her presence of mind. She knew just what to do and she did it. Grandma lived in another town, 30 miles away, but Marianne knew all about telephoning to Grandma. So she did. Grandma knew what to do, too, and she did it. She called up the fire department in Long Beach and the firemen got the fire out almost before Marianne could say Jack Robinson.

Yes, it was bright of Marianne to telephone. But it wasn't bright to set fire to the house. If Grandma had been out, there might have been serious consequences.

Maybe the U. S. A. has the brightest and best of all the armies in the world and will win the most brilliant of all victories. But if Americans had been as bright as they should have been back in 1933, when Hitler rose, or earlier, maybe there wouldn't have been any need for the brilliant victories now. Or the casualties.

It's very nice to be bright in the face of danger. But it's better, as parents like to tell their older children, not to let the dangerous situation arise.

DIES AND THE DEVIL

THERE are cheers and sighs intermingled as Congress votes two years more of life for the Dies Committee's crusade against un-American activities. A notable feature of the voting is the opposition of Congressman Jerry Voorhis of California, a member of the committee who has stood with Chairman Dies for three years but says he couldn't do it again. It seems likely that the committee would have been allowed to die out if it hadn't been for the war. But millions of Americans who have been very critical about the Dies viewpoint and methods will naturally acquiesce now, because of the greater peril in war time.

It is regrettable, however, that there is not closer cooperation between the Dies Committee and the F.B.I. The former body is jealous of its prerogative and has an unfortunate tendency to see a 'devil with horns behind every stump. The F.B.I. is far more competent and rational in such matters. But apparently nothing can be done about that.

Federal taxes seem to be in a terrible mess, but you'll have to pay 'em just the same, only more so.

With shoe rationing, will there be a revival of the old country custom of children going barefoot?

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

NEW BOOK CONFIRMS OFFER

WASHINGTON — In December, 1940, Secretary of State Hull issued a caustic, categorical denial that he had ever offered a $100,000,000 credit to Dictator Franco of Spain.

Today is published a book, "Appeasement's Child" by Lieut. Thomas J. Hamilton, U. S. Navy, who was in Spain at the time and tells in detail how the American Ambassador Alexander Weddell offered Franco a $100,000,000 credit. The book is one which should be read by everyone who wants to understand the State Department's long history of appeasement in Spain, France, Japan, Germany and North Africa.

Lieut. Hamilton relates how in the Winter of 1940, Franco was riding roughshod over American interests, how the Fascists were thumbing their noses at the United States, and how all this culminated in the stoning of the American Embassy by a gang of Fascist students from the University of Madrid.

"Ambassador Weddell had informed Serrano Suner (Spanish foreign minister and Franco's brother-in-law) that a hostile demonstration was planned and even named the day," writes Lieut. Hamilton. "No extra guards were provided, however, and even the two usually stationed in front of the Embassy were absent when the gang came up and started shouting its opinion of the United States. When Mr. Weddell came out, one of them grabbed his arm and tried to hold it up in the Fascist salute."

Then the gang began throwing stones, and some enamel was chipped off the seal of the United States over the doorway. Weddell immediately asked for an interview to protest the incident.

DOLLARS FOR STONES

But, continues Lieut. Hamilton, "over a week elapsed before Mr. Weddell was able to see Franco. . . . At last, however, the interview took place, and we offered the once famous $100,000,000 credit instead of demanding an apology. This sum was to be used for wheat, gasoline, rubber, cotton, meat—the five products necessary to prevent the Franco regime from collapsing."

"Perhaps suspecting that some elaborate Anglo-Saxon plot was lurking behind this ingenuously, Franco was not over enthusiastic. He agreed, however, for Mr. Weddell to discuss details with Serrano Suner the following week. The interview went off rather well, and Serrano Suner agreed on behalf of his brother-in-law to accept the credit if the United States would be satisfied with the phrase 'if it is not foreseen' that Spain would enter the war instead of a flat promise" (not to enter the war).

Lieut. Hamilton goes on to state that when the American public learned of this astonishing transaction, the reaction "was highly unfavorable, and Secretary of State Cordell Hull announced that although Franco had requested a $100,000,000 credit, he had been refused."

FRANCO FINALLY SAVED

The Washington Merry-Go-Round at about this time published a statement that Hull had offered the $100,000,000 credit to Franco, but that Undersecretary Welles had gone over his head to the President to oppose it.

Caring for a Patient With Heart Disease

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I DISCUSSED yesterday the relationship between heart disease and the patient's psychology and emotions. One reason why psychology and emotions are likely to be mixed up and harmful to the patient with heart disease is that the very words "heart disease" carry such a message of terror to most people.

Dr. Clendingen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The physician has to assure his patient that the term does not imply immediate death or disability in the near future. If he succeeds in doing so, he will have accomplished 50 per cent of his treatment.

The fact is that even in serious organic heart disease, it is usually a very chronic condition and people have been known to live to ripe old ages. There is a report of an eminent American musician and composer who was born with a very badly deformed heart.

The anatomical condition of the heart was such as to make it seem difficult to believe that it could function at all. Yet this man lived an active life and contributed to American music and died only when he was 60 years old—an age when many college athletes pass away.

Three Kinds
In general, we can distinguish three kinds of heart disease. One is valvular disease of the heart, one is high blood pressure and the other is angina pectoris.

All of these are compatible with long life and activity and living out the normal expectancy which life insurance companies set down. The question arises as to just how the heart patient should take care of himself and what he should do in order to make the promise of life expectancy come true.

From time immemorial it has been stated that exertion wears the heart down—exercise, overwork. But it may be doubted whether bodily exertion does any harm. The patient with valvular disease usually compensates, as we say, which means that since his heart has more work to do, the heart muscle acts like any muscle when it has more work to do—it enlarges.

Many people write in to me because they have become alarmed because someone has said they had an enlarged heart. In valvular heart disease the enlarged heart is the safety device and savior. These people go on for many years in a period of compensation and then often they break down and have general congestion.

Causes of Breakdown

The cause of the breakdown is much more likely to be due to infection or under-nutrition than it is to bodily exertion. A boy who has had rheumatic fever and has developed valvular heart disease is not likely to listen to the persuasions of his parents that he should not play baseball. He is going to play baseball and when he is at bat and hits the ball he is going to run to first base as fast as he possibly can. This probably does not hurt him in the least.

The heart patient, however, should be very careful to avoid infection. And if he is stricken with an infection, he should take extra care of himself by resting longer than would be required for an average person. Focal infections in the teeth and tonsils should be cared for.

The nutrition of the patient with heart disease should receive special care. Lack of vitamin B, when grossly deficient in the diet, leads to a form of heart failure and it is well that the patient should become familiar with the foods which contain vitamin B and see that he gets a good daily allowance.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
D. M. L.:—Does sinus trouble affect bronchitis and is this the cause of spitting up phlegm?
Answer: Chronic bronchitis is more often caused by sinus trouble than any other one thing. In order to relieve the bronchitis the sinus trouble must be cured.

In the Sky

ON THURSDAY, February 18th, the planet Mercury is at its greatest western elongation from the sun, and visible in the morning sky before sunrise. Although its elongation is 26°24', this does not mean that it will be so many degrees above the horizon at sunrise. As a matter of fact it will not be more than 10° above the horizon at this time, and not as well placed for observation as at some later elongations. The little planet rises about an hour and a quarter before the sun.

On the night of February 19-20 there will be a partial eclipse of the moon. This eclipse will not compare in beauty with the total eclipse of the moon of last August, but nevertheless for amateur observers it will be an interesting event.

The beginning of the eclipse can be seen over most of Europe and Africa, the Atlantic Ocean, and North, South and Central America. The ending will be visible in western Europe, northwest Africa, the north Atlantic, the Americas and the eastern and central Pacific Oceans.

The middle of the eclipse occurs at 1:38 a. m. February 20th, Eastern War Time.

During an eclipse of the moon the moon passes into the shadow cast by the solid, opaque earth. In this way the light of the sun is cut off from the moon for a short period, and we say the "moon is eclipsed."

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

KAY COULD hardly believe that she had heard a strange female making a date with Jake over the telephone. And yet she knew it shouldn't have been a shock. Since Jake wasn't working, he obviously was diverting himself some way. The fact that it hadn't occurred to her that his diversions were female showed how blind she had been.

In a way it didn't worry her much. Not that the idea appealed to her, far from it. But she did feel fairly certain that anything he did was still purely something to fill in time, to shorten the days, to make him less conscious of his empty hours and her busy ones. But it was obviously essential to take that. And then she told Het about Mr. Everett's proposition.

The waiter began fussing around, asked them if they'd like some hot coffee. Kay looked at her watch. It was nearly 3 o'clock. The restaurant was empty.

"Come on, let's get out of here," she said.

Kay paid the check, doubled the tip to pacify the famished waiter. He thanked her half a dozen times, bowed and ushered them out ceremoniously.

"The power of money," Het remarked with a tolerant smile.

"It has its uses," Kay said. "I know everyone is going to say 'Poor Jake,' and consider me a tyrant. Actually, getting along without money is going to be hard for me, too. Being served superior food, with perfect service—over-tipping—is just one of the many things that is extravagant, really useless and futile, yet part of life as I'm used to living it."

"I know. And you've always loved McClure's. I haven't figured out why you're giving it all up. They were walking slowly up Madison avenue. The streets were jammed. The brisk spring breeze ruffled the women's curls, blew off an occasional man's hat, cleared the city of dust and grime and made it seem new and shiny and tingling."

"It's the only way to save Jake. I've developed an unsuspected passion for crusading. So few people have anything worth making sacrifices for. Jake shouldn't throw away what he has."

"Lots of feet that way. But what about the well-known Kerr zest for fun and life?"

"He'll get his zest satisfied in other ways," Kay said.

"You're sure of that?"

"No, I'm not sure." For the first time Kay's convictions showed signs of wavering. "I'm not sure how it's going to work out at all. It will be a gamble for both of us. With terrific stakes. But if I lose nobody can say I didn't go down fighting."

"Has Jake heard the news?"

"No," Kay admitted. "That's a job that lies ahead of me." She

"Do you know what it costs to get him ready for concerts? He'd have to take lessons, be groomed. Until he's established it would probably cost him money to give concerts." Het's forehead was wrinkled with doubt.

"Yes, I know. But I've figured it all out. I still have the money in the bank that was left from father's estate. I've never had to touch it. It's all I have. I'm extravagant, always have spent my salary. When the salary went up, the expenses did too. But that money of father's has been waiting for just such a time as this. It will buy the house, Jake's money will run it, my jewelry will take care of the lessons. And when the time comes for major expenses like hiring concert halls, we should be fixed for that. And then she told Het about Mr. Everett's proposition.

The waiter began fussing around, asked them if they'd like some hot coffee. Kay looked at her watch. It was nearly 3 o'clock. The restaurant was empty.

"Come on, let's get out of here," she said.

Kay paid the check, doubled the tip to pacify the famished waiter. He thanked her half a dozen times, bowed and ushered them out ceremoniously.

"The power of money," Het remarked with a tolerant smile.

"It has its uses," Kay said. "I know everyone is going to say 'Poor Jake,' and consider me a tyrant. Actually, getting along without money is going to be hard for me, too. Being served superior food, with perfect service—over-tipping—is just one of the many things that is extravagant, really useless and futile, yet part of life as I'm used to living it."

"Has Jake heard the news?"

"No," Kay admitted. "That's a job that lies ahead of me." She watched an airplane buzz its way over the skyscraper tops. "I wish we could do that with our lives," she thought, "see them all neatly laid out within the space of a few seconds, the beginning and the end."

The light turned red. They stood waiting to cross the street. "Tell me," Kay said, "you told me a while ago that you always tried to be honest. Do you think a lie is ever justifiable?"

"Goodness, what a question of ethics for me to have to answer on such a lovely spring afternoon. I really don't know. Possibly. The ends justify the means and so on. But let's skip morality and settle for an ice cream soda."

That evening Jake and Kay had their weekly night out together. Kay got in from work just before Jake did. She had a shower and lay down on her bed in a negligee. She fell into a light doze, and Jake's "Good evening, Anna," woke her up. He always greeted Anna as though she were the one person in the world whom he particularly wanted to see. She grumbled at him occasionally, but she adored him. "Mrs. Kerr in yet?" he asked.

"Yes, she was early tonight. I think she's resting."

"How do you think she seems now. She swears she's fine, but she looks so tired and thin." He sounded worried.

"I don't think she's ever been really strong since that sickness of hers. She never lets on. But I can tell."

Kay got up, went into the living room. Anna, laughed on the subject of Kay's health, could be pretty dull.

"Hello, darling," she greeted Jake.

"Hello yourself." He walked over and kissed her. "He's the one who looks thin and tired," she thought. He lit them both cigarettes, sat down in an armchair and pulled her down on his lap. They smoked quietly for a minute or two. Then he said, "Where shall we go tonight? All the regular places seem too stuffy for a night like this."

Kay sat upright. "Take me out in Jenny. I've never seen that celebrated member of the family."

"You in that old bus? That would be a sight." He was amused. "Especially if you wear one of those crazy hats and your new fur. I'd probably be arrested for kidnapping."

"Don't be silly. I won't wear town clothes. And we'll go out to the country. We could go see the Blakes. They're out in Greenwich now, aren't they? They usually go about the first of May."

Kay was curious to see what Jake's reaction would be to that suggestion. She didn't know how much he was seeing of that crowd, and there was some question in her mind that Sylvia Blake might have been the female on the telephone.

THE MODERN CHILD

MARINNE Shaw, four years old, of Long Beach, Cal., was left alone at home for a short time. Marinne—very naughty—played with the forbidden matches. The house was set on fire. Parents are always warning children this may happen, but seldom are they taken seriously by the children. This time it did happen. Marinne was scared—but she did not lose her presence of mind. She knew just what to do and she did it. Grandma lived in another town, 30 miles away, but Marinne knew all about telephoning to Grandma. So she did. Grandma knew what to do, too, and she did it. She called up the fire department in Long Beach and the firemen got the fire out almost before Marinne could say Jack Robinson.

Yes, it was bright of Marinne to telephone. But it wasn't bright to set fire to the house. If Grandma had been out, there might have been serious consequences.

Maybe the U. S. A. has the brightest and best of all the armies in the world and will win the most brilliant of all victories. But if Americans had been as bright as they should have been back in 1933, when Hitler rose, or earlier, maybe there wouldn't have been any need for the brilliant victories now. Or the casualties.

It's very nice to be bright in the face of danger. But it's better, as parents like to tell their older children, not to let the dangerous situation arise.

DIES AND THE DEVIL

THERE are cheers and sighs intermingled as Congress votes two years more of life for the Dies Committee's crusade against un-American activities. A notable feature of the voting is the opposition of Congressman Jerry Voorhis of California, a member of the committee who has stood with Chairman Dies for three years but says he couldn't do it again. It seems likely that the committee would have been allowed to die out if it hadn't been for the war. But millions of Americans who have been very critical about the Dies viewpoint and methods will naturally acquiesce now, because of the greater peril in war time.

It is regrettable, however, that there is not closer cooperation between the Dies Committee and the F.B.I. The former body is jealous of its prerogative and has an unfortunate tendency to see a devil with horns behind every stump. The F.B.I. is far more competent and rational in such matters. But apparently nothing can be done about that.

Federal taxes seem to be in a terrible mess, but you'll have to pay 'em just the same, only more so.

With shoe rationing, will there be a revival of the old country custom of children going barefoot?

U. S.-Britain alliance is urged

It is a mere matter of keeping the peace, this would be O. K. The plan, though, is to tie the United States into an alliance with the British. Britain is in favor of the program for obvious reasons. We are a most formidable partner for any nation to have. On the opposite hand, John Bull's empire has a lot of ramifying footholds that are liable to be beneficial to us in emergencies. The only difficulty is that protection of these footholds is a mean Yankee task whenever one of them is assaulted.

For instance, imagine what a contract we have got on our hands in India!

But that is not a circumstance in comparison with the final Russian settlement.

At present we regard Russia as an ally.

The done is that Comrade Joe Stalin will turn democratic when

NEW BOOK CONFIRMS OFFER

WASHINGTON — In December, 1940, Secretary of State Hull issued a caustic, categorical denial that he had ever offered a $100,000,000 credit to Dictator Franco of Spain.

Today is published a book, "Appeasement's Child" by Lieut. Thomas J. Hamilton, U. S. Navy, who was in Spain at the time and tells in detail how the American Ambassador Alexander Weddell offered Franco a $100,000,000 credit. The book is one which should be read by everyone who wants to understand the State Department's long history of appeasement in Spain, France, Japan, Germany and North Africa.

Lieut. Hamilton relates how in the Winter of 1940, Franco was riding roughshod over American interests, how the Fascists were thumbing their noses at the United States, and how all this culminated in the stoning of the American Embassy by a gang of Fascist students from the University of Madrid.

"Ambassador Weddell had informed Serrano Suner (Spanish foreign minister and Franco's brother-in-law) that a hostile demonstration was planned and even named the day," writes Lieut. Hamilton. "No extra guards were provided, however, and even the two usually stationed in front of the Embassy were absent when the gang came up and started shouting its opinion of the United States. When Mr. Weddell came out, one of them grabbed his arm and tried to hold it up in the Fascist salute."

Then the gang began throwing stones, and some enamel was chipped off the seal of the United States over the doorway. Weddell immediately asked for an interview to protest the incident.

DOLLARS FOR STONES

But, continues Lieut. Hamilton, "over a week elapsed before Mr. Weddell was able to see Franco. . . . At last, however, the interview took place, and we offered the once famous $100,000,000 credit instead of demanding an apology. This sum was to be used for wheat, gasoline, rubber, cotton, meat—the five products necessary to prevent the Franco regime from collapsing."

"Perhaps suspecting that some elaborate Anglo-Saxon plot was lurking behind this ingenuously, Franco was not over enthusiastic. He agreed, however, for Mr. Weddell to discuss details with Serrano Suner the following week. The interview went off rather well, and Serrano Suner agreed on behalf of his brother-in-law to accept the credit if the United States would be satisfied with the phrase 'if it is not foreseen' that Spain would enter the war instead of a flat promise" (not to enter the war).

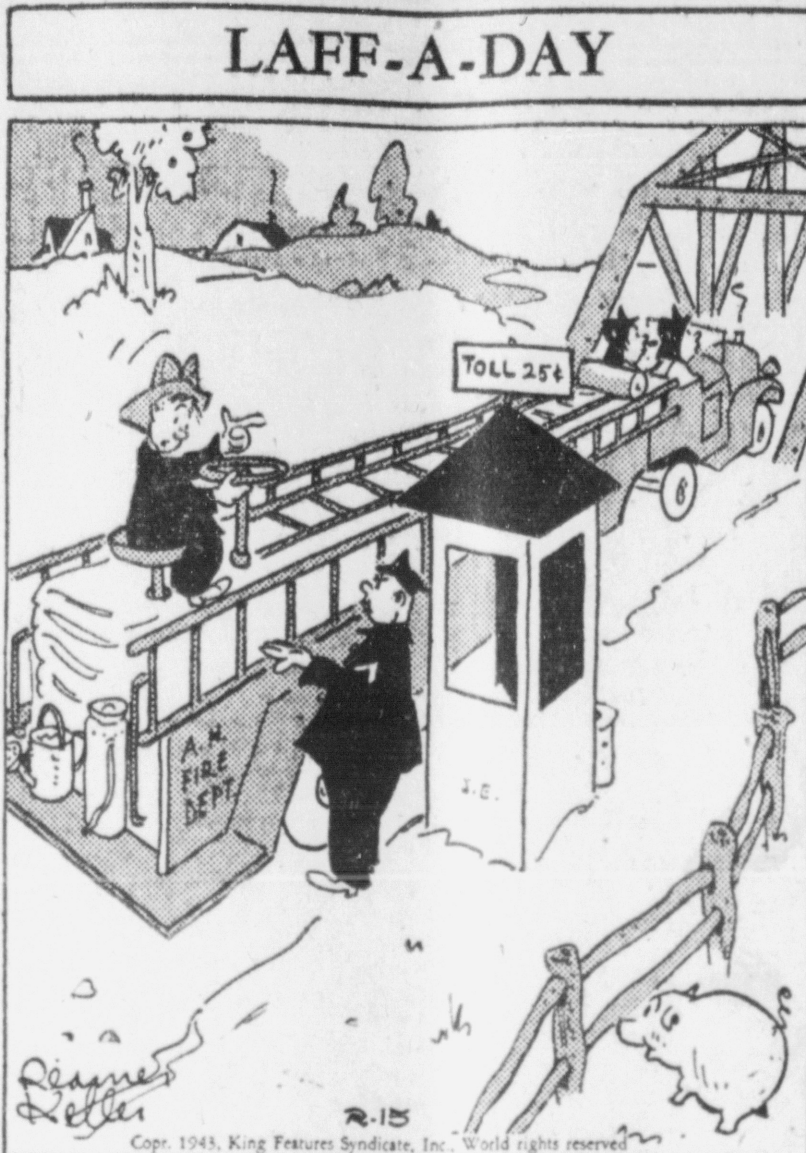

Lieut. Hamilton goes on to state that when the American public learned of this astonishing transaction, the reaction "was highly unfavorable, and Secretary of State Cordell Hull announced that although Franco had requested a $100,000,000 credit, he had been refused."

FRANCO FINALLY SAVED

The Washington Merry-Go-Round at about this time published a statement that Hull had offered the $100,000,000 credit to Franco, but that Undersecretary Welles had gone over his head to the President to oppose it.

Referring to this, Lieut. Hamilton states: "Whatever the disagreement with—"

Caring for a Patient With Heart Disease

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I DISCUSSED yesterday the relationship between heart disease and the patient's psychology and emotions. One reason why psychology and emotions are likely to be mixed up and harmful to the patient with heart disease is that the very words "heart disease" carry such a message of terror to most people.

The physician has to assure his patient that the term does not imply immediate death or disability in the near future. If he succeeds in doing so, he will have accomplished 50 per cent of his treatment.

The fact is that even in serious organic heart disease, it is usually a very chronic condition and people have been known to live to ripe old ages. There is a report of an eminent American musician and composer who was born with a very badly deformed heart. The anatomical condition of the heart was such as to make it seem difficult to believe that it could function at all. Yet this man lived an active life and contributed to American music and died only when he was 60 years old—an age when many college athletes pass away.

Three Kinds
In general, we can distinguish three kinds of heart disease. One is valvular disease of the heart, one is high blood pressure and the other is angina pectoris.

All of these are compatible with long life and activity and living out the normal expectancy which life insurance companies set down. The question arises as to just how the heart patient should take care of himself and what he should do in order to make the promise of life expectancy come true.

From time immemorial it has been stated that exertion wears the heart down—exercise, overwork. But it may be doubted whether bodily exertion does any harm. The patient with valvular disease usually compensates, as we say, which means that since his heart has more work to do, the heart muscle acts like any muscle when it has more work to do—it enlarges.

Many people write in to me because they have become alarmed because someone has said they had an enlarged heart. In valvular heart disease the enlarged heart is the safety device and savior. These people go on for many years in a period of compensation and then often they break down and have general congestion.

Causes of Breakdown
The cause of the breakdown is much more likely to be due to infection or under-nutrition than it is to bodily exertion. A boy who has had rheumatic fever and has developed valvular heart disease is not likely to listen to the persuasions of his parents that he should not play baseball. He is going to play baseball and when he is at bat and hits the ball he is going to run to first base as fast as he possibly can. This probably does not hurt him in the least.

The heart patient, however, should be very careful to avoid infection. And if he is stricken with an infection, he should take extra care of himself by resting longer than would be required for an average person. Local infections in the teeth and tonsils should be cared for.

The nutrition of the patient with heart disease should receive special care. Lack of vitamin B, when grossly deficient in the diet, leads to a form of heart failure and it is well that the patient should become familiar with the foods which contain vitamin B and see that he gets a good daily allowance.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Answer: Chronic bronchitis is more often caused by sinus trouble than any other one thing. In order to relieve the bronchitis the sinus trouble must be cured.

In the Sky

ON THURSDAY, February 18th, the planet Mercury is at its greatest western elongation from the sun, and visible in the morning sky before sunrise. Although its elongation is 26° 24', this does not mean that it will be so many degrees above the horizon at sunrise. As a matter of fact it will not be more than 10° above the horizon at this time, and not as well placed for observation as at some later elongations. The little planet rises about an hour and a quarter before the sun.

On the night of February 19-20 there will be a partial eclipse of the moon. This eclipse will not compare in beauty with the total eclipse of the moon of last August, but nevertheless for amateur observers it will be an interesting event.

The beginning of the eclipse can be seen over most of Europe and Africa, the Atlantic Ocean, and North, South and Central America. The ending will be visible in western Europe, northwest Africa, the north Atlantic, the Americas and the eastern and central Pacific Oceans.

The middle of the eclipse occurs at 1:38 a. m. February 20th, Eastern War Time.

During an eclipse of the moon the moon passes into the shadow cast by the solid, opaque earth. In this way the light of the sun is cut off from the moon for a short period, and we say the "moon is eclipsed."

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

KAY COULD hardly believe that she had heard a strange female making a date with Jake over the telephone. And yet she knew it shouldn't have been a shock. Since Jake wasn't working, he obviously was diverting himself some way. The fact that it hadn't occurred to her that his diversions were female showed how blind she had been.

In a way it didn't worry her much. Not that the idea appealed to her, far from it. But she did feel fairly certain that anything he did was still purely something to fill in time, to shorten the days, to make him less conscious of his empty hours and her busy ones. But it was obviously essential to take direct action quickly, so that his days would be as busy as hers.

The events of the last few weeks fitted together like a jigsaw puzzle. The parts had been confusing. The completed picture was simple. Now that her mind was made up she felt relieved. She wondered why she had found the solving of this puzzle so difficult, why she had hesitated.

The first step in her campaign was a trip to the doctor. "Best thing in the world for you," he said. "Just what you need. Fresh air, exercise, physical exertion. I'd like to see you gain a few pounds first. Rest up a bit. But, otherwise, I'm for it."

The next person she talked to was Het. They lunched together, and over coffee and cigars Kay launched her idea.

"I've a plan in mind," she said, "and it will either be the maddest thing I've ever done or the wisest. Before you hear it, make me one promise." Kay was in dead earnest.

"Of course," Het was beginning to look worried.

"I want you to promise to tell me honestly what you think about the whole thing."

"I'm always honest, or at least I try hard to be."

"Yes, I know you are. It's just that this is so important. And your reaction means more to me than anyone else." She thoughtfully put out a cigarette she had only just lighted.

"I'm going to leave McClure's," "Just like that?" "Just like that."

"And then?" "Then Jake and I are going to move to the country, buy a small house, live on his income, and he is going to work."

"Do you know what Jake's income is?" "About $2,500 a year."

"By work, I presume you mean the piano."

"Naturally. I haven't lost my senses enough to think that Jake might do anything else," Kay said with a quick smile. "I have no delusions about Jake's raising chickens or running a hardware store."

"Do you know what it costs to get him ready for concert? He'd have to take lessons, be groomed. Until he's established it would probably cost him money to give concerts." Het's forehead was wrinkled with doubt.

"Yes, I know. But I've figured it all out. I still have the money in the bank that was left from father's estate. I've never had to touch it. It's all I have. I'm extravagant, always have spent my salary. When the salary went up, the expenses did too. But that money of father's has been waiting for just such a time as this. It will buy the house, Jake's money will run it, my jewelry will take care of the lessons. And when the time comes for major expenses like hiring concert halls, we should be fixed for that." And then she told Het about Mr. Everett's proposition.

The waiter began fussing around, asked them if they'd like some hot coffee. Kay looked at her watch. It was nearly 3 o'clock. The restaurant was empty.

"Come on, let's get out of here," she said.

Kay paid the check, doubled the tip to pacify the flustered waiter. He thanked her half a dozen times, bowed and ushered them out ceremoniously.

"The power of money," Het remarked with a tolerant smile.

"It has its uses," Kay said. "I know everyone is going to say 'Poor Jake,' and consider me a tyrant. Actually, getting along without money is going to be hard for me, too. Being served superior food, with perfect service—over-tipping—is just one of the many things that is extravagant, really useless and futile, yet part of life as I'm used to living it."

"I know. And you've always loved McClure's. I haven't figured out why you're giving it all up." They were walking slowly up Madison avenue. The streets were jammed. The brisk spring breeze ruffled the women's curls, blew off an occasional man's hat, cleared the city of dust and grime and made it seem new and shiny and tingling.

"It's the only way to save Jake. I've developed an unsuspected passion for crusading. So few people have anything worth making sacrifices for. Jake shouldn't throw away what he has."

"Lots of us feel that way. But what about the well-known Kerr zest for fun and life?"

"He'll get his zest satisfied in other ways," Kay said.

"You're sure of that?" "No, I'm not sure." For the first time Kay's convictions showed signs of wavering. "I'm not sure how it's going to work out at all. It will be a gamble for both of us. With terrific stakes. But if I lose nobody can say I didn't go down fighting."

"Has Jake heard the news?" "No," Kay admitted. "That's a job that lies ahead of me." She watched an airplane buzz its way over the skyscraper tops. "I wish we could do that with our lives," she thought, "see them all neatly laid out within the space of a few seconds, the beginning and the end."

The light turned red. They stood waiting to cross the street. "Tell me," Kay said, "you told me a while ago that you always tried to be honest. Do you think a lie is ever justifiable?"

"Goodness, what a question of ethics for me to have to answer on such a lovely spring afternoon. I really don't know. Possibly. The ends justify the means and so on. But let's skip morality and settle for an ice cream soda."

That evening Kay and Jake had their weekly night out together. Kay got in from work just before Jake did. She had a shower and lay down on her bed in a negligee. "I don't think she's ever been really strong since that sickness of hers. She never lets on. But I can tell."

Kay got up, went into the living room. Anna, lounged on the subject of Kay's health, could be pretty dull.

"Hello, darling," she greeted Kay.

"Hello yourself." He walked over and kissed her. "He's the one who looks thin and tired," she thought. He lit them both cigarettes, sat down in an armchair and pulled her down on his lap. They smoked quietly for a minute or two. Then he said, "Where shall we go tonight? All the regular places seem too stuffy for a night like this."

Kay sat upright. "Take me out in Jenny. I've never seen that celebrated member of the family."

"You in that old hat? That would be a sight." He was amused. "Especially if you wear one of those crazy hats and your new furs. I'd probably be arrested for kidnapping."

"Don't be silly. I won't wear town clothes. And we'll go out to the country. We could go see the Blakes. They're out in Greenwich now, aren't they? They usually go about the first of May."

Kay was curious to see what Jake's reaction would be to that suggestion. She didn't know how much he was seeing of that crowd, and there was some question in her mind that Sylvia Blake might have been the female on the telephone.

Hints on Etiquette
Don't enter a house and stand on a rug wearing wet overshoes or rubbers.

Today's Horoscope
Persons with Birthdays today do not mix well with other people and devote most of their time and all of their love to their families. They have fine inherent talents, which lie dormant until some emergency forces them to recognize and exploit them. They are a little too self-centered and should cultivate generosity. If these people are employed at night, they should not let gossip, gaudy taste, selfishness, false accusations or general restlessness affect them on this day. They should also refrain from being ambiguous in their requests or instructions.

The Spring Blue-Bird

Self belt and buckle, long sleeves and a flat fitted back skirt are features of this Spring navy blue frock. Note the plunging V neckline.

NAVY blue has become a year 'round fashion color but it is still at its most alluring in the Spring. As an harmonious backdrop for lilting skies, jolly-jump-ups and budding leaves, it's a tint that can't be beat.

Here is one of the early navy-blue birds, a sheer crepe made with a soft skirt well within wartime fabric regulations, and a blouse which simulates the always flattering bolero. The wide revers which accent shoulder width to minimize waist girth are of powder blue moire, and they end in a skillfully twisted moire bow placed at the exactly becoming point of the bodice.

The Spring Blue-Bird

Self belt and buckle, long sleeves and a flat fitted back skirt are features of this Spring navy blue frock. Note the plunging V neckline.

NAVY blue has become a year 'round fashion color but it is still at its most alluring in the Spring. As an harmonious backdrop for lilting skies, jolly-jump-ups and budding leaves, it's a tint that can't be beat.

Here is one of the early navy-blue birds, a sheer crepe made with a soft skirt well within wartime fabric regulations, and a blouse which simulates the always flattering bolero. The wide revers which accent shoulder width to minimize waist girth are of powder blue moire, and they end in a skillfully twisted moire bow placed at the exactly becoming point of the bodice.

BRAMHAM CITES MEANS TO KEEP BASEBALL ALIVE

By Lawton Carver
NEW YORK, Feb. 15—Judge William G. Bramham, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, which is the organization composed of all the minors, has come up with an idea that might answer the problem of wartime recreation for many workers and service men, and at the same time help to keep the game alive.

The old judge—the Landis of the minors—who rules over his vast and important minor league empire from down in Durham, N. C., long has been recognized as a sound, thoughtful baseball man. He knows the game inside out from way back. He also knows something about human nature. His opinions are not dismissed lightly.

He suggests in a bulletin out of his office that Class E leagues be organized all over the nation as a war-time asset to the game, to provide baseball "in territories where operation of larger leagues has been found inadvisable during the emergency."

The bulletin goes on to say: "There would, of course, be some necessary changes in present regulations covering Class E leagues, such as dropping down the bars against experienced performers."

"President Bramham believes such changes could be made and would permit many of the former players now engaged in war industries to participate in the game and provide baseball for communities which might not have it otherwise."

Expressing the belief that industrial plants, and commercial and civic organizations will support such a movement, Judge Bramham continues:

"Class E circuits can play as few as three games per week, which means that part time of the performers could be devoted to industrial work. With night ball in vogue, the players could put in a full week on the job and play several night games each week. The payroll of such leagues would augment the salary earned in industrial plants."

The oldest and most popular of French forms of poetry is the ballade—not to be confused with the ballad—according to Louis Untermeyer.

Iowa Coach Serves

The fact that Jacob, a middleweight with some 15 pounds on Ray, had the Sugar Kid on his back for a nine count (the bell saved Ray from a knockout) and his first set-back have led some of the "geniuses" to speculate Robinson may have lost his fighting "spark."

Ray is going into the army, according to his schedule, March 2. Some of the beachcombers, who are plotting the second front when not issuing communiques on fistic affairs, are of the opinion Ray is concerned over entering the service and claim it has taken his mind off his work.

Another couple of guys named Joe say Robinson has become cocky, that his long list of victories had caused him to lose interest in the racket and he figured La Motta and Delicourt a couple of set-ups. He beat each handily but failed to floor them and when he ran into Jacob the bull the second time he was rudely surprised.

There has also been some talk of Robinson ducking Sgt. Jackie Wilson. The sarge, a pretty good scrapper also made the mistake of taking on middleweight La Motta with sorry results.

THERE'S ALWAYS A NEW ONE

TRACK AND FIELD fans have seen many famous milers come and go. There was Bill Bonthron, then Glenn Cunningham, Archie San Romani, Chuck Fenske, Gene Venzke and last year, Gil Dodds. Today, following the first big indoor meet of the season, a new name has come to the fore as the possible new mile king—Earl Mitchell of Indiana. ## Three-I League Folds; Texas May Quit Also

CHICAGO, Feb. 15—The Three-I league, one of the oldest minor league circuits in organized baseball, was out of business today for the duration of the war.

Shortage of players and the increasing difficulties of transportation caused representatives of the six clubs meeting in Chicago to vote suspension of operations until the last shot is fired in the world contest.

Tom Fairweather of Des Moines, Ia., was re-elected president of the league at half his regular salary to carry on what official business there is during 1943 and to have affairs ready for a resumption of operations at the end of the war.

"I hope that that will be next year," he said. "At any rate we are definitely optimistic about it. In fact, we have determined unofficially to expand the league to eight clubs when we start in again."

The league was reduced to six clubs last season after Moline, Ill., and Clinton, Ia., dropped out. Those remaining were Waterloo, Ia., Cedar Rapids, Ia., Springfield, Ill., Decatur, Ill., Evansville, Ind., and Madison, Wis.

Waterloo was a member of the Chicago White Sox farm system and Madison had a working agreement with the Chicago Cubs.

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 15—The decision on whether the Texas Baseball league would operate in 1943 was postponed today until February 24 as officials of the circuit awaited a ruling by Paul V. McNutt, war manpower commissioner, on the deferment status of professional ball players.

Rogers Hornsby, Port Worth manager, and President H. O. Polk of Oklahoma City were among the league officials favoring going ahead with 1943 plans "let come what may."

TOLEDO OUTFIT HOLDS TOP RUNG IN CAGE CIRCLES

COLUMBUS, Feb. 15—The Toledo university Rockets, an all freshman aggregation, today appeared to hold a firm grasp on both Ohio Conference and state-wide collegiate basketball laurels.

The Rockets have won four straight in the conference loop and 15 of 17 against all opposition. The two losses were to DePaul and Loyola, but Toledo avenged the Loyola loss by taking the second game of the set Saturday night 57-30.

The Lutherans of Capital university held second place in the All-Ohio standings after being knocked off the peak last week by Muskingum by 70 to 64 and Ohio Northern by 64-55. Wilberforce, which held second place in the state-wide race a week ago, skidded to fourth place after losing to Wilmington.

Mount Union, last year's champion, definitely surrendered all claim to the throne this year by bowing to both Heidelberg and Wittenberg. This leaves Mt. Union with eight wins and four defeats in the state-wide scrap and three wins in seven starts in the league.

Wooster, holding second place in the conference with only one loss in six games, is to meet Findlay and Mount Union on home hardwood this week. The Scots boast a streak of 49 wins on home grounds not having lost at home since Mount Union edged them 36-31 on January 19, 1936.

Wyndel Gray, Bowling Green's

freshman star, continued to glitter, as he set a new scoring record for buckeye cagers last week. Gray has run his 20-game total to 480 points, after a 29-point spurge against Heidelberg. Gray, who has two games to go, bested the previous mark of 467, set by Toledo's Bob Gerber in 23 games a year ago.

FATHER, SON COMBINE
NEW YORK, Feb. 15 — It looks like a father and son finally got together in a money-winning sports event. On the train en route to Boston Saturday, Frank T. Dixon 2nd took a chance in a pool on the winning time of the Hunger mile. He drew the time 4:11.5. His son, Frank T. Dixon, 3rd, New York university's great freshman miler, won the event. The time was 4:11.4, a winner for the father.

Wyndel Gray, Bowling Green's

freshman star, continued to glitter, as he set a new scoring record for buckeye cagers last week. Gray has run his 20-game total to 48 points, after a 29-point spurge against Heidelberg. Gray, who has two games to go, bested the previous mark of 467, set by Toledo's Bob Gerber in 23 games a year ago.

HUTSON SCORES GREAT RECORD IN PRO LEAGUE

Eight New Marks Put To Credit Of Green Bay Packer Satellite

ISBELL'S PASSES CLICK

Longest And Shortest Toss For Touchdown Scored To Ex-Bama Ace

CHICAGO, Feb. 15—Don Hutson, the receiver of the Green Bay Packers' famous passing combination of Cecil Isbell and Hutson, set eight new records while winning the pass receiving championship of the National Football league last season, statistics showed today.

Last season marked the fifth time in eight years Hutson won the title.

Hutson finished the season with 74 receptions, nearly three times as many as his nearest competitor, Frank Ivy of the Chicago Cardinals. Ivy had 27.

In addition to his receptions, Hutson set new season records for total yards gained (1,211), touchdowns on receptions (17). Since joining the Packers in 1935 he brought to 336 the number of passes he has received; touchdowns scored to 72 and total yards gained on receptions to 5,515—a new record.

He also set a new mark for the shortest touchdown pass completed when he caught one for four inches from Isbell against Cleveland October 18.

The Green Bay magician's other record was a game mark, established also against Cleveland October 18 when he gained 209 yards on receptions, exceeding by 9 yards the old mark set by Don Looney, then with Philadelphia, December 1, 1940. Two weeks later he again broke Looney's record when he gained 207 yards against the Cardinals. He also tied Looney's record for passes caught in one game when he took 14 against New York November 22.

Hutson's 17 touchdowns bettered by seven the record he set in 1941. Hutson had two big weeks in touchdown production. One Sunday in November he caught three touchdowns passes against the Chicago Cardinals and the following week he duplicated the feat against Cleveland. It marked the sixth time in his professional career that he had caught three passes for scores in one game and the fourth time he turned the trick against Cleveland.

Ivy was followed by Dante Mariani, of Cleveland, who finished third with 24 receptions. Ray McLean, of the Chicago Bears, was the second leading ground gainer with 571 yards on 19 receptions and he also finished second to Hutson in touchdown passes with eight. Perry Schwartz, of Brooklyn, caught the second longest pass, a 71-yard effort against New York October 25. Hutson caught the longest pass when he snared a 73-yard touchdown aerial from Isbell against the Chicago Cardinals November 1.

"MISS DUFFY"

Shirley Booth, who plays the extremely naive "Miss Duffy" to Ed Gardner's "Archie" on "Duffy's Tavern," will be Sammy Kaye's guest on the maestro's musical program next Wednesday at 8 p. m., on CBS. Shirley has been a busy gueststar of late, making appearances on several coast-to-coast variety programs.

"BEST-DRESSED"

There'll be uniforms aplenty on the Rudy Vallee program this week when Diana Carlson, script girl for the show, makes her farewell appearance dressed in a WAAC uniform. She has just enlisted in the women's auxiliary corps. Rudy is already a member of the U. S. Coast Guard, and appears in his Navy uniform, with special permission by the Service to run his Thursday program. Vallee contributes his entire radio salary to Army and Navy relief organizations.

"COMEDY CARAVAN"

Ed "Archie" Gardner, proprietor of "Duffy's," guest stars on the "Comedy Caravan," when that program broadcasts on Friday, February 19, at 10 p. m., over CBS.

Gardner will match his Brooklyn accent with the dialects of Herb Shriver, the "harmonica-playing Hoosier," and Lew Lehr, who has been foremost in spreading the doctrine that "Monkeys is der ewaziest people!"

Xavier Cugat's Latin rhythms are a musical feature of this series, which has Lanny Ross, tenor star, as singing master of ceremonies, and Georgia Gibbs as his partner in song.

BOB HAWK

Recently Bob Hawk, quizmaster of "Thanks to the Yanks," heard Saturdays at 7:30 p. m., over CBS, visited Camp Kilmer, N. J., to emcee a U.S.O. show and conduct a quiz for the boys. One of the contestants was a young private from Detroit named Bob Hawk. When Bob ("Thanks to the Yanks") Hawk arrived back in New York, it occurred to him that it would be a swell idea to invite his namesake to be his guest for an evening and take him to dinner, a Broadway show and a night club, provided he was due for a furlough. So he called the camp the following day. It was too late. Private Hawk had already left for active duty and his destination was a military secret. If Private Hawk should read this, Quizmaster Hawk would appreciate hearing from him.

HONOR HOME FRONT

Listeners throughout the country have been writing to Ginny Simms and the sponsors of her Tuesday night "Johnny Presents" NEC-WEAF program asking why they don't honor the soldiers on the home front. Vick Knight, the executive producer of the show and creator of the formula for the program, decided to do something about it. So, for the one program only, they will deviate from the soldier-sailor-marine presentations and pay tribute to the assembly line instead of the front line.

One of the unusual guests will be Ruth Robinson, 46 inch midge riveter from the Douglas Aircraft plant. (Johnny the Call Boy, the living trade mark on the program, is also 46 inches high.) Hundreds of midgets are now doing that work in the inner wings of Douglas Bombers, thereby saving more than 10,000 man hours of labor yearly.

Another guest will be Claude Charles Crawford, who left the Douglas assembly line to join the Marines. He saw action at Pearl Harbor, where he was wounded. After being given a medical discharge by the Marines, Crawford went back to his old job on the assembly line.

Silex Goes Into Production at Local Factory

INDUSTRY SHIPS FIRST ORDER TO CHICAGO FIRM

25 Local Men And Women Gain Jobs, And Others To Be Employed

MANY ORDERS ON BOOKS

Purchases Already Listed To Keep Plant Busy For Long Period

Production at the Silex plant, Circleville's newest industry, was in full swing, Monday, Joel Backus, general manager, reporting that 25 persons are now employed with more to be given jobs during the week.

All employees are being drawn through the U. S. Employment Service, registration there being necessary to obtain work. The list of applicants given to the plant manager is sufficiently large to take care of all available jobs, Backus said.

Experimental assembling of coffee pots has been going on for several days and at the end of Monday's operations the Silex plant will probably have between 6,000 and 7,000 units ready for shipment. George Lane of Circleville has been placed in charge of the shipping department.

First Order Filled

First order to be filled was sent by motor freight to Chicago. Mr. Backus said that the plant has sufficient orders to keep it running at full speed for a long while. Silex coffee pots will be sent to all parts of the country, motor freight and train to be used for shipment.

The plant is employing women and men, all Circleville and Pickaway county labor being hired. At present women are working 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. five and one-half days each week with men working same hours six days. Government hour regulations may soon change the hour system to provide 48 hours for each employee.

Makes Three Types

The Silex plant, which occupies the Goeller broom factory building, Clinton street, will assemble three types of coffee pots, the factory now working on drip model exclusively. Later percolators and vacuum models will be assembled here.

Main offices of the Silex plant are located at Hartford, Conn. Mr. Backus has been in the administrative office of the plant for several years. His home is in Meriden, Conn. As soon as school is out he expects to be joined here by his wife and sons.

Here a native, left, explains the intricate workings of the Indian version of the slot machine (profusely ornamented) to United States Aerial Gunners Sergt. Robert Schaffer of Clayton, Wash.; Sergt. ## LOCAL DEBATERS TIE FOR SECOND IN AREA MEET

Competing against some of the strongest high school teams in the state, Circleville high school's debate team consisting of Martha Pile and Ned Stout tied for second place in the annual district tournament sponsored by the Ohio High School Speech League. The tournament was held in Derby Hall, Ohio State University, with 15 schools participating. The team was accompanied to the tournament by Samuel R. Johnson, debate coach.

Marietta's team won first place in the tournament and the right to go to the state finals unopposed by virtue of four straight wins. Circleville, Newark, Zanesville, North high of Columbus and Marysville all tied for second place with three wins and one loss each. The tie will be run off Wednesday afternoon, February 17, at Ohio State university, and two teams from this group will be entitled to compete in the state tournament which is to be held at the university, Saturday, February 20.

Miss Pile and Mr. Stout debated both the affirmative and the negative side of the question which is resolved: "That a World Federal Government Should Be Established." Circleville won the decision over Central high's negative team of Columbus, Delaware high's affirmative and Antioch high's negative. The only loss was to North high's affirmative.

Other high schools of the district represented in the contest were Coshocton, Westerville, Beaverville, Ashley and West and East of Columbus.

Besides competing in the debate contests Circleville's two debaters also took part in the extemporaneous speaking events. Both Ned Stout and Martha Pile extemporized in two different rounds on a different subject each time, Ned Stout going into the finals in which he won third place.

Following the dinner to be served at 6:30 p. m. members of the committee will discuss expansion of the organization for the Second Victory Loan drive to be conducted in April.

The Victory Loan committee, as did others in all parts of the nation, did a yeoman job in December.

Mr. Will will preside at the meeting.

ANNUAL MEETING OF C. OF C. SET FOR FEBRUARY 19

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

in our own government, it seems to have been the sudden veto by Hoare (British Ambassador Sir Samuel Hoare) that finally brought its rejection. His change of heart apparently resulted from the fact that the Franco regime, interpreting the offer as sign of weakness, suddenly resumed its forward policy in Tangiers in defiance of pledges to the British. At the same time, several of the most prominent British businessmen in Spain were arrested.

Lieut. Hamilton goes on to report that later Franco got a credit totalling $100,000,000 in a roundabout way from Argentina. We offered Argentina a $100,000,000 credit, but it was rejected, and how the matter was arranged is still a secret.

However, Lieut. Hamilton reports that finally "the Argentine debt went through in January, 1941, at a time when Spain had just two weeks' supply of wheat left. . . . Argentina's maize started pouring in when the nation was down to her last stocks, and Franco was saved to fight another day."

Note: Greatest worry on the part of Gen. Eisenhower in North Africa today is that Spain will team up with Hitler and attack us. To protect against this a good part of the U. S. Army has to be stationed all around Spanish Morocco. A drive from Spanish Morocco could completely separate U. S. forces in French Morocco from those in Algeria.

MRS. HARRY HOPKINS' PARTY

Gossip about Bernie Baruch's party for Mrs. Harry Hopkins has reached such fabulous proportions that in fairness the facts should be stated. Mr. Baruch, now 72 years old, never drinks, eats sparingly, almost always goes to bed by 9 p. m. If you phone him after 9:30 p. m., he is impossible to reach unless there is sickness in the family. Usually, he limits dinner guests to four people.

On the occasion of the Hopkins party, Baruch told the maitre d'hotel at the Carlton: "I don't want a big party, Joseph. I'll pay for what they eat."

Joseph replied: "Leave it to me."

Bernie now regretfully mourns: "I did."

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Republican Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire is the man who led the attack against Bronx Boss Ed Flynn as Minister to Australia. As revenge, White House advisers are proposing that the President name New Hampshire's ex-Governor Francis Murphy, Democrat, who nearly defeated Bridges last November, to take Flynn's place in Australia.

Pan American Airways' Captain R. O. D. Sullivan has logged 100 flights across the Atlantic—a record. . . . Efficient Censor Byron Price has nothing on his desk—absolutely nothing. . . . Senator Ellender of Louisiana now has his brother-in-law, Charles A. Donnelly, serving as acting collector of Internal Revenue in New Orleans.

Judge Marvin Jones, ex-Congressman from Texas and brother-in-law of Speaker Sam Rayburn, is in the embarrassing position of almost superseding Secretary of Agriculture Wickard on various farm problems. Jones is Economic Czar Brynes' farm adviser. . . . In India, Mahatma Gandhi's newspaper is still talking about how ex-Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson "strove with might and main to bring a settlement between India and Britain and failed, not for want of effort on his part."

People around the War Department wish that Johnson were back striving for the Army.

FISHING LICENSES HERE
Fishing licenses for 1943 have arrived in the office of Clerk of Courts A. L. Wilder and have been put on sale. Fishermen must have new licenses prior to March 1.

THEFT OF AUTO PUTS SOLDIER IN WARM SPOT

Theft of the automobile of Herbert Dunkle of Laurelville led to the arrest by Hocking county authorities of Private Selkirk Atkinson, Jr., of near Laurelville, for being a deserter from the army. Atkinson was stationed at Camp Lee, Va. He is expected to be returned there to face desertion charges. He was attached to the Sixth Quartermaster Corps.

According to Camp Lee authorities Atkinson deserted January 14. The soldier's arrest was made by Deputy Sheriff Floyd Duffy of Logan after he drove the Dunkle car into a ditch near Laurelville. The deputy said he attempted to drive another car away but was caught.

Atkinson is being held in Logan jail awaiting arrival of Camp Lee authorities.

Silex Goes Into Production at Local Factory

INDUSTRY SHIPS FIRST ORDER TO CHICAGO FIRM

25 Local Men And Women Gain Jobs, And Others To Be Employed

MANY ORDERS ON BOOKS

Purchases Already Listed To Keep Plant Busy For Long Period

Production at the Silex plant, Circleville's newest industry, was in full swing, Monday, Joel Backus, general manager, reporting that 25 persons are now employed with more to be given jobs during the week.

All employees are being drawn through the U. S. Employment Service, registration there being necessary to obtain work. The list of applicants given to the plant manager is sufficiently large to take care of all available jobs, Backus said.

Experimental assembling of coffee pots has been going on for several days and at the end of Monday's operations the Silex plant will probably have between 6,000 and 7,000 units ready for shipment. George Lane of Circleville has been placed in charge of the shipping department.

First Order Filled

First order to be filled will be sent by motor freight to Chicago. Mr. Backus said that the plant has sufficient orders to keep it running at full speed for a long while. Silex coffee pots will be sent to all parts of the country, motor freight and train to be used for shipment.

The plant is employing women and men, all Circleville and Pickaway county labor being hired. At present women are working 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. and one-half day each week with men working same hours six days. Government hour regulations may soon change the hour system to provide 48 hours for each employee.

Makes Three Types

The Silex plant, which occupies the Goeller broom factory building, Clinton street, will assemble three types of coffee pots, the factory now working on drip model exclusively. Later percolators and vacuum models will be assembled here.

Main offices of the Silex plant are located at Hartford, Conn. Mr. Backus has been in the administrative office of the plant for several years. His home is in Meriden, Conn. As soon as school is out he expects to be joined here by his wife and sons.

WHAT'S "JACKPOT" IN HINDUSTANI?

THE SLANT-EYED, yellow brigands of Japan have not yet invaded India but the familiar one-armed bandits—sometimes known as slot machines—are on the job, wooing unwary nickels. Here a native, left, explains the intricate workings of the Indian version of the slot machine (profusely ornamented) to United States Aerial Gunners Sgt. Robert Schaffer of Clayton, Wash.; Serg. Douglas Radney of Texas, and Serg. George A. Brummett of Princeton, Mo.

Boys, 17, Get Chance To Try for Gold Wings

Circleville district 17-year-old youths are being offered an opportunity to enter the navy's much-publicized V-5 flight training school, leading to gold wings and commissions as ensigns in the naval reserve or second lieutenants in the Marine corps reserve. The Naval Aviation Cadet Selection board in Detroit, Mich., serves the Ohio area, local youths interested being invited to communicate with the Detroit office.

The announcement brings to high school seniors and graduates the same opportunity previously offered only to men between 18 and 26.

High schools and colleges are being given details of the plan. Interested youths may also consult their school authorities.

The 17-year group will not be called to active training until they have completed the minimum educational requirement of high school graduation. Some may then be placed in a college program before beginning actual flying.

Present plans call for those accepted to be given at least the full $27,000 training course previously offered to cadets 18 to 26. This training takes about 16 months under the ablest instructors in the service and includes piloting, navigation, gunnery, aerology, radio operation and associated sciences.

Pay as aviation cadets is $75 per month. When commissioned, navy and marine flyers receive $245 and upwards per month.

LOCAL DEBATERS TIE FOR SECOND IN AREA MEET

Competing against some of the strongest high school teams in the state, Circleville high school's debate team consisting of Martha Pile and Ned Stout tied with five other schools for second place Saturday in the annual district tournament sponsored by the Ohio High School Speech League. The tournament was held in Derby Hall, Ohio State University, with 15 schools participating. The team was accompanied to the tournament by Samuel R. Johnson, debate coach.

Marietta's team won first place in the tournament and the right to go to the state finals uncontested by virtue of four straight wins. Circleville, Newark, Zanesville, North high of Columbus and Marysville all tied for second place with three wins and one loss each. The tie will be run off Wednesday afternoon, February 17, at Ohio State university, and two teams from this group will be entitled to compete in the state tournament which is to be held at the university, Saturday, February 20.

Miss Pile and Mr. Stout debated both the affirmative and the negative side of the question which is resolved: "That a World Federal Government Should Be Established." Circleville won the decision over Central high's negative team of Columbus, Delaware high's affirmative and Antioch high's negative. The only loss was to North high's affirmative.

Other high schools of the district represented in the contest were Coshocton, Westerville, Beaverville, Ashley and West and East of Columbus.

Besides competing in the debate contests Circleville's two debaters also took part in the extemporaneous speaking events. Both Ned Stout and Martha Pile extemporized in two different rounds on a different subject each time, Ned Stout going into the finals in which he won third place.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

In our own government, it seems to have been the sudden veto by Hoare (British Ambassador Sir Samuel Hoare) that finally brought its rejection. His change of heart apparently resulted from the fact that the Franco regime, interpreting the offer as sign of weakness, suddenly resumed its forward policy in Tangiers in defiance of pledges to the British. At the same time, several of the most prominent British businessmen in Spain were arrested.

Lieut. Hamilton goes on to report that later Franco got a credit totalling $10,000,000 in a roundabout way from Argentina. We offered Argentina a $10,000,000 credit, but it was rejected, and how the matter was arranged is still a secret.

However, Lieut. Hamilton reports that finally "the Argentine deal went through in January, 1941, at a time when Spain had just two weeks' supply of wheat left. . . . Argentine maize started pouring in when the nation was down to her last stocks, and Franco was saved to fight another day."

Note: Greatest worry on the part of Gen. Eisenhower in North Africa today is that Spain will team up with Hitler and attack us. To protect against this a good part of the U. S. Army has to be stationed all around Spanish Morocco. A drive from Spanish Morocco could completely separate U. S. forces in French Morocco from those in Algeria.

MRS. HARRY HOPKINS' PARTY

Gossip about Bernie Baruch's party for Mrs. Harry Hopkins has reached such fabulous proportions that in fairness the facts should be stated. Mr. Baruch, now 72 years old, never drinks, eats sparingly, almost always goes to bed by 9 p. m. If you phone him after 9:30 p. m., he is impossible to reach unless there is sickness in the family. Usually, he limits dinner guests to four people.

On the occasion of the Hopkins party, Baruch told the maitre d'hotel at the Carlton: "I don't want a big party, Joseph. I'll pay for what they eat."

Joseph replied: "Leave it to me."

Bernie now regretfully mourns: "I did." Busy with other things, spending most of his time trying to speed up war production, and having no women in his household, Bernie knew nothing of what was to be served until he entered the dining room. He says now he wishes he had been trained to be more domestic.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Republican Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire is the man who led the attack against Bronx Boss Ed Flynn as Minister to Australia. As revenge, White House advisers are proposing that the President name New Hampshire's ex-Governor Francis Murphy, Democrat, who nearly defeated Bridges last November, to take Flynn's place in Australia.

Pan American Airways' Captain R. O. D. Sullivan has logged 100 flights across the Atlantic—a record. . . . Efficient Censor Byron Price has nothing on his desk—absolutely nothing. . . . Senator Ellender of Louisiana now has his brother-in-law, Charles A. Donnelly, serving as acting collector of Internal Revenue in New Orleans.

Judge Marvin Jones, ex-Congressman from Texas and brother-in-law of Speaker Sam Rayburn, is in the embarrassing position of almost superseding Secretary of Agriculture Wickard on various farm problems. Jones is Economic Czar Brynes' farm adviser. . . . In India, Mahatma Gandhi's newspaper is still talking about how ex-Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson "strove with might and main to bring a settlement between India and Britain and failed, not for want of effort on his part."

People around the War Department wish that Johnson were back striving for the Army.

THEFT OF AUTO PUTS SOLDIER IN WARM SPOT

Theft of the automobile of Herbert Dunkle of Laurelville led to the arrest by Hocking county authorities of Private Selkirk Atkinson, Jr., of near Laurelville, for being a deserter from the army. Atkinson was stationed at Camp Lee, Va. He is expected to be returned there to face desertion charges. He was attached to the Sixth Quartermaster Corps.

According to Camp Lee authorities Atkinson deserted January 14. The soldier's arrest was made by Deputy Sheriff Floyd Duffy of Logan after he drove the Dunkle car into a ditch near Laurelville. The deputy said he attempted to drive another car away but was caught.

Atkinson is being held in Logan jail awaiting arrival of Camp Lee authorities.
